Sixty-sixth session
Agenda item 115 (g)
Appointments to fill vacancies in subsidiary organs and other appointments

Appointment of members of the Joint Inspection Unit

Note by the President of the General Assembly

1. As indicated in paragraph 7 of the note by the Secretary-General of 16 June 2011 (A/66/106), the General Assembly will need to fill the vacancies that will arise upon the expiry of the term of office of Messrs. Mohamed Mounir-Zahran (Egypt), Nikolay V. Chulkov (Russian Federation), Enrique Román-Morey (Peru), Even Francisco Fontaine Ortiz (Cuba) and Zhang Yishan (China) and Ms. Deborah Wynes (United States of America) in December 2012. Also, as indicated in paragraph 1 of the note by the Secretary-General of 3 November 2011 (A/66/106/Add.1), the General Assembly, at its 47th plenary meeting, on 1 November 2011, decided to fill one vacancy in the Joint Inspection Unit for a term of office beginning on 1 January 2012 and expiring on 31 December 2016, which resulted from the resignation of Mr. Enrique Román-Morey (Peru) with effect from 31 October 2011.

2. In accordance with the procedures described in article 3, paragraph 1, of the statute of the Joint Inspection Unit and pursuant to General Assembly resolution 61/238, the President of the General Assembly, at the 63rd plenary meeting, on 22 November 2011, having consulted Member States and having drawn up a list of countries from among the Group of African States, the Group of Asia-Pacific States, the Group of Eastern European States, the Group of Latin American and Caribbean States and the Group of Western European and other States, requested the Gambia, Haiti, India, the Russian Federation and the United States of America to propose candidates (see annexes I-V) to serve for a period of five years beginning on 1 January 2013.

3. The candidates, in accordance with paragraph 7 of General Assembly resolution 59/267, should have experience in at least one of the following fields: oversight, audit, inspection, investigation, evaluation, finance, project evaluation, programme evaluation, human resources management, management, public administration, monitoring and/or programme performance, in addition to knowledge of the United Nations system and its role in international relations.

4. The President of the General Assembly has held the consultations described in article 3, paragraph 2, of the statute of the Joint Inspection Unit, including consultations with the President of the Economic and Social Council and with the Secretary-General in his capacity as Chair of the United Nations System Chief Executives Board for Coordination. The replies received from the President of the Economic and Social Council and from the Secretary-General to identical letters addressed to them on 30 November 2011 by the President of the Assembly are attached (see annexes VI and VII).

5. Having completed the required consultations, the President of the General Assembly has the honour to submit to the Assembly the following candidates for appointment as members of the Joint Inspection Unit for a five-year term beginning on 1 January 2013 and expiring on 31 December 2017:

Ms. Sukai Prom-Jackson (Gambia)

Mr. Jean Wesley Cazeau (Haiti)

Mr. A. Gopinathan (India)

Mr. Gennady Tarasov (Russian Federation)

Mr. George A. Bartsiotas (United States of America)

Annex I

Note verbale dated 21 June 2011 from the Permanent Mission of the Gambia to the United Nations addressed to the United Nations Secretariat

The Permanent Mission of the Gambia to the United Nations has the honour to inform the Secretariat of the United Nations that the Gambia has decided to nominate Ms. Sukai Prom-Jackson as a candidate for membership in the Joint Inspection Unit at the elections to be held in November 2011. Ms. Prom-Jackson is an eminently qualified candidate with the requisite academic, professional, international and cross-cultural background and experience, spanning many decades. She currently serves as Evaluation Adviser at the United Nations Development Programme.

Sukai Prom-Jackson (Gambia)

Professional experience

Professional experience includes over 25 years of work in four key areas: (a) the conduct and management of research, measurement and evaluation; (b) policy formulation, strategic planning, programme and project design and implementation; (c) programme management and coordination; and (d) learning facilitation and training. These four areas are described below.

She has worked for: United Nations Development Programme (UNDP) (6 years); World Bank (15 years); United States Peace Corps in the Gambia (2 years); Government of the Gambia (2 years); United States Department of Education (3 years); state and public schools in the United States of America (5 years); United States management consulting companies (3 years); United States foundations and various universities in the United States (3 years). Her direct work experiences have been in over 10 countries in Africa, Asia and the United States. Evaluation studies have addressed over 30 countries. She has also participated in a wide range of regional and global initiatives.

Education

Doctor of Philosophy in Educational Psychology, with a focus on policy research, measurement, evaluation and human development; Master of Education in programme and curriculum development and teaching; and Bachelor of Arts in History and French.

Evaluation, research and measurement

Her experience in this area spans over 20 years of developing evaluation policies, developing and managing research and evaluation programmes, and conducting a wide range of studies significant for accountability, policy development, institutional change and programme improvement. This work has been done at UNDP, the World Bank, in the United States Government and at universities.

UNDP Evaluation Office, Evaluation Adviser (2005-present)

She has assumed team leadership and management positions, as described below.

As a member of the UNDP Evaluation Office management team and Coordinator of methodology, quality enhancement, partnerships and knowledge management, she has worked with senior managers, team leaders and coordinators over the past five years, as follows:

- Led the development of the 2006 UNDP evaluation policy and set the framework for its implementation.
- Defined the strategic direction of the office and key result areas and deliverables.
- Monitored implementation of the work programme and made the necessary adjustments in staffing, workload and resource allocation.

- Addressed corporate requirements and demands for accountability and improvement and provided advice on the response of the Evaluation Office to institutional issues.
- Led the work of the Evaluation Office on the methodology for enhancing the quality and credibility of its evaluations. This included conducting evaluations to serve accountability and learning as well as to develop methodologies for evaluation in various areas.
- Carried out various corporate responsibilities, including: reviews of the evaluation policies of other United Nations agencies; participation in human resource interview panels, development of an accountability mechanism, including the balanced scorecard, and various UNDP work sessions addressing oversight and accountability; and serving as a focal point for the associated funds and programmes and the Capacity Development Group.
- Represented the Evaluation Office in a wide range of international meetings and workshops addressing development evaluation, aid effectiveness and development effectiveness.

Coordinator for special initiatives

The Evaluation Office plays a major leadership role in advancing development evaluation and the use of appropriate evaluation methods. In this regard, she played a lead role from 2006 to 2009, as described below.

As Team Leader of the United National Evaluation Group:

- Worked with members of the Group to define the parameters and guiding principles for a country-led, joint evaluation of the United Nations system in South Africa; led the pre-scoping mission focused on clarifying the demand for the evaluation, defining a partnership framework, costing the evaluation and developing a financing plan.
- Worked with the Evaluation Group and the South African Department of Foreign Affairs on a process of engaging the Government in the evaluation as a basis for ensuring quality and utility and for defining the framework for the scoping mission and plan for the management and conduct of the evaluation.

Network of Networks on Impact Evaluation

- Served as the liaison between the Evaluation Group and the Network of Networks on Impact Evaluation, and as UNDP liaison with the International Initiative for Impact Evaluation to define a strategic direction for impact evaluation at the global level, and to lead the work on the development of qualitative impact evaluation.

Enhancing UNDP staff and partner country capacity for evaluation

- Led the updating of the UNDP Handbook on Monitoring and Evaluation and associated technical guides.
- Supported efforts to enhance the capacity of various regional evaluation associations, with a focus on the African Evaluation Association.

Evaluation Office Quality Enhancement Team

Led a team of evaluation specialists from 2005 to 2007 in regard to the following:

- Developing a common institutional framework for the evaluation function in UNDP through: the development of the UNDP evaluation policy and its approval by the UNDP Executive Board; the development of operational guidelines and procedures for policy implementation; enhancing implementation of the evaluation policy through training, regional workshops and other activities for mainstreaming evaluation in the UNDP programming cycle and in organizational tools and instruments.
- Providing support for organizational accountability through (a) the development of the UNDP annual report on evaluation, including informal discussion and follow-up discussions with the Executive Board; and (b) the development of information management systems for tracking compliance for purposes of evaluation planning and following up management responses to evaluations.
- Enhancing the quality of the evaluation function by playing a lead role in the Development Assistance Committee of the Organization for Economic Cooperation and Development (OECD/DAC) peer review of the UNDP central evaluation function, the establishment of quality criteria and mechanism for the quality assurance of decentralized evaluation units and reporting on quality of evaluation for institutional action to improve quality.

Participation in task forces and working groups of the United Nations Evaluation Group (2005-2010)

- Served as Co-Chair of the Training Task Force to define and implement a strategy for training, including development and delivery of training programmes for staff of United Nations and partner agencies.
- Participated in various other task forces of the Evaluation Group, including the Task Force on Quality Stamp for Evaluation and the Evaluation Capacity Development Task Force, and its working group for the development of the constitution of the Group.
- Delivered learning sessions on various topics to staff of United Nations evaluation agencies as part of the Group's Evaluation Practice Exchange.
- Represented UNDP at the annual general meetings of the Evaluation Group.

World Bank, Human Development Network, Senior Education Specialist (2002-2004)

As the lead specialist for measurement and evaluation in the Education Unit of the Human Development Network, she undertook the following:

- Provided: (a) support for the Bank's corporate activities on results measurement and evaluation; (b) training on measurement, research and evaluation at the Bank and at the international level; and (c) guidance and support to Bank staff involved in implementing the Bank's agenda on results measurement and evaluation.

- Led the development of the results framework for the monitoring and evaluation of the Education for All — Fast Track Initiative, in partnership with key donors, and worked with internal and external agencies and donor partners in addressing issues of data quality and accessibility, client capacity-building in measurement and evaluation, and the harmonization of donor efforts on monitoring and evaluation.

- Initiated, together with monitoring and evaluation colleagues, the development of the monitoring and evaluation working group and a work programme on impact evaluation, in alignment with the Bank's Development Impact Evaluation (DIME) programme.

World Bank, World Bank Institute Evaluation Group, Senior Evaluation Specialist (1998-2002)

- Led the development of the first policy and strategy for the evaluation of the staff learning programme to address the key goals of accountability, programme improvement and knowledge development.

- Led the Bank-wide review of a system for the governance of the Bank's staff programme for professional excellence, established a sustainable system for evaluation, in partnership with key stakeholders, and planned and managed the conduct of multiple evaluation studies.

- Led the technical upgrading of the system for the measurement of learning processes and outcomes in the Bank's client training programme, using both traditional and alternative measurement methods.

- Initiated major conceptual reflections on appropriate forms of impact evaluation of diverse products.

- Provided technical guidance on formative evaluation to various Bank units.

United States Government, Office of Educational Research and Improvement, Research Associate (1983-1986)

- Developed policies for educational research and evaluation.

- Completed contracts and grant programmes, monitored and enhanced their implementation by major research institutions at Harvard University, Yale University and the University of California, Los Angeles, and by regional research laboratories.

- Established liaison among government institutions, research centres and practitioners, and used results to propose national policies and programmes.

- Evaluated innovations in education and supported the development of evaluation and assessment systems in selected states.

District of Columbia Public Schools, Office of Strategic Planning, Research and Accountability, Research Associate (1979-1982)

- Conducted large-scale evaluations of the effectiveness of federally funded programmes in the United States (Chapter 1 for minorities, and Chapter 2 for innovations in education).

- Conducted and published or made presentations of research studies on culture and cognition, minorities in math and science, teachers and teaching, effective use of instructional time, and home environment and performance.
- Assisted programme directors to enhance the evaluability of their programmes and trained their staff on measurement and evaluation concepts.
- Supervised various research teams addressing a wide range of topics in education.

Howard University, Lecturer and Graduate Thesis Adviser (1981-1984)

- Taught classes on statistics, research design, evaluation methods, psychometrics, and learning and cognitive development.

Policy formulation, programme and project design and implementation (1983-2004)

For over 13 years (1984-2004), she established or supported the development of policies and strategies for education in the United States of America and Africa and developed and implemented diverse programmes. The following experiences in the World Bank are significant because of opportunities and challenges for partnerships, innovation in difficult change contexts and impact on development:

- As Task Manager for an educational sector adjustment programme, initiated with government partners a participatory process in Benin to develop a revised educational policy and strategy to restructure the organization and financing of the sector, and to develop a sector-wide programme for financing by the Bank and other donors (1990-1994). A major highlight of this work was the establishment of a boarding school to address the secondary education of girls. This followed earlier analytical work I initiated in the Bank on girls' education and development.
- As Senior Training Officer, collaborated with the operational policy and country support unit and the Bank's regional senior operations advisers to develop, plan and implement the first integrated curriculum on Bank operations and portfolio management for the Bank's staff and clients (1994-1998).
- Led the development of a comprehensive programme for staff and manager training on the Bank's new lending instruments and on the results-based management framework for project/programme design, monitoring and evaluation; trained and supported Bank staff, managers and clients with regard to the logframe as a participatory tool for planning and for enhancing evaluability (1995-2000).

Management and coordination

Since 1987, she has managed and coordinated a variety of programmes and has developed excellent skills in planning, budgeting, selecting and guiding staff, and the effective delivery of work programmes. Besides the lead and management roles and responsibilities outlined in regard to her current work with UNDP, the work described below is also significant.

World Bank, Human Development Network: Program Coordinator in education, Development Grant Facility and Global and Regional Partnership Programs, and Professional Development Program (2002-2004)

- Developed programme strategy, plans and budget with sector managers for global programmes and partnerships; provided guidance to over 20 task managers and senior staff to ensure quality in project design; and provided support to staff in identifying and establishing partnerships to address global issues in human development.
- Collaborated across sectors in the Human Development Network in relation to programme implementation.
- Represented the unit in the Bank's Knowledge and Learning Board and in the Global Programs and Partnerships Council.

World Bank Institute, Evaluation Unit, Acting Manager (2000-2001)

- Worked with the Director of the Unit to enhance its stability and to develop its business goals, plans and budget for the programme for the evaluation of the training of Bank clients, and supervised a team of over 15 staff as well as specialists in research and evaluation to deliver the Unit's business goals within budget and with high quality.

United States Peace Corps, Associate Director for Education and Health (Gambia, 1986-1988)

- Led the development of the programme on education and health and enhanced its strategic relevance.
- Evaluated and restructured the education and health programmes.
- Managed the programmes and supervised over 50 Peace Corps volunteers with graduate degrees in mathematics, science, engineering, public health and community development.
- Provided assistance to the Gambian Government in reformulating education policies and restructuring the national examinations system.
- Established a wide range of small-scale community projects, in partnership with various non-governmental organizations, to enhance local empowerment and, in particular, that of women.

Learning facilitation, teaching and development of learning organizations

She has a keen interest in understanding and enhancing people's understanding and development of knowledge and skills; some of her experiences in this area are highlighted above and can be summarized as follows:

- Studied cognitive science and ethnographic psychology as one basis for understanding people's knowledge systems, cognitive schemas and learning styles, and how this guides thought processes and behaviours.
- Taught and facilitated learning and behavioural change among various populations: children, adolescents, university students, directors, programme managers, practitioners, researchers and evaluators.

- Developed an integrated curriculum for high-impact learning and behavioural change, based on a model that links institutional needs, individual needs, performance requirements, incentive systems, the demands of a learning organization and organizational change.
- Participated in the use of high-impact change models, such as Accelerating Results Together, to enhance the development of World Bank policies and programmes for staff excellence as learners and knowledge developers.
- Engaged in follow-up activities of evaluations, focusing on an analysis of what works, how it works and why it works.
- Studied and applied formative evaluation models addressing transformative processes, including how people adopt innovations, the change processes they go through and the types of support needed at each stage of the change process.

Annex III

Letter dated 26 July 2011 from the Permanent Representative of India to the United Nations addressed to the President of the General Assembly

I have the honour to write to you and intimate that the Government of India has decided to nominate Mr. A. Gopinathan, Ambassador and Permanent Representative of India to the United Nations Office and other international organizations in Geneva, as India's candidate for appointment as Inspector in the Joint Inspection Unit (JIU) for the 2013-2017 term, to be considered during the forthcoming sixty-sixth session of the General Assembly.

Ambassador Gopinathan has been associated with the United Nations as a member of the Permanent Mission of India to the United Nations in New York from February 1987 to September 1990, and subsequently as India's Deputy Permanent Representative in New York from January 2002 to September 2005. He was Director-General responsible for work relating to the United Nations from August 1997 to December 2001 at the Ministry of External Affairs in New Delhi. He thus possesses considerable experience in United Nations affairs, including administrative and financial matters and management questions, having supervised the work of the delegate to the Fifth Committee for several years.

Having been Permanent Representative in Geneva for the past two and a half years, Mr. Gopinathan has acquired additional knowledge of the functioning of the United Nations system, especially with regard to specialized agencies and other United Nations bodies located in Geneva.

India last served in JIU from January 1968 to December 1977. Other members of the Asian Group which have served, or have been serving, on JIU are Indonesia (1978-1984 and 1985-1994), the Syrian Arab Republic (1983-1992), Jordan (1993-2002), Japan (1995-2014) and China (2003-2012).

30 June 2012

1. On 30 June 2012, the Secretaries-General of the United Nations and the League of Arab States, the Ministers for Foreign Affairs of China, France, the Russian Federation, the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Northern Ireland, the United States of America, Turkey, Iraq (Chair of the Summit of the League of Arab States), Kuwait (Chair of the Council of Foreign Ministers of the League of Arab States) and Qatar (Chair of the Arab Follow-up Committee on Syria of the League of Arab States) and the High Representative of the European Union for Foreign Affairs and Security Policy met at the United Nations Office at Geneva as the Action Group for Syria, chaired by the Joint Special Envoy of the United Nations and the League of Arab States to Syria.

2. The members of the Action Group came together out of grave alarm at the situation in the Syrian Arab Republic. They strongly condemn the continued and escalating killing, destruction and human rights abuses. They are deeply concerned at the failure to protect civilians, the intensification of the violence, the potential for even deeper conflict in the country and the regional dimensions of the problem. The unacceptable nature and magnitude of the crisis demands a common position and joint international action.

3. The members of the Action Group are committed to the sovereignty, independence, national unity and territorial integrity of the Syrian Arab Republic. They are determined to work urgently and intensively to bring about an end to the violence and human rights abuses, and to facilitate the launch of a Syrian-led political process leading to a transition that meets the legitimate aspirations of the Syrian people and enables them independently and democratically to determine their own future.

4. In order to secure these common objectives, the members of the Action Group (a) identified steps and measures by the parties to secure the full implementation of the six-point plan and Security Council resolutions 2042 (2012) and 2043 (2012), including an immediate cessation of violence in all its forms; (b) agreed on principles and guidelines for a political transition that meets the legitimate aspirations of the Syrian people; and (c) agreed on actions that they would take to implement the objectives in support of the Joint Special Envoy's efforts to facilitate a Syrian-led political process. They are convinced that this can encourage and support progress on the ground and will help to facilitate and support a Syrian-led transition.

Identified steps and measures by the parties to secure the full implementation of the six-point plan and Security Council resolutions 2042 (2012) and 2043 (2012), including an immediate cessation of violence in all its forms

5. The parties must fully implement the six-point plan and Security Council resolutions 2042 (2012) and 2043 (2012). To that end:

(a) All parties must recommit to a sustained cessation of armed violence in all its forms and to the implementation of the six-point plan immediately and without waiting for the actions of others. The Government and armed opposition groups must cooperate with the United Nations Supervision Mission in the Syrian Arab Republic (UNSMIS), with a view to furthering the implementation of the plan in accordance with the Mission's mandate;

(b) A cessation of armed violence must be sustained, with immediate, credible and visible actions by the Government of the Syrian Arab Republic to implement the other items of the six-point plan, including:

(i) Intensification of the pace and scale of release of arbitrarily detained persons, including especially vulnerable categories of persons, and persons involved in peaceful political activities; the provision, without delay and through appropriate channels, of a list of all places in which such persons are being detained; the immediate organization of access to such locations; and the provision, through appropriate channels, of prompt responses to all written requests for information, access or release regarding such persons;

(ii) Ensuring freedom of movement throughout the country for journalists and a non-discriminatory visa policy for them;

(iii) Respecting freedom of association and the right to demonstrate peacefully, as legally guaranteed;

(c) In all circumstances, all parties must show full respect for the safety and security of UNSMIS and fully cooperate with and facilitate the Mission in all respects;

(d) In all circumstances, the Government must allow immediate and full humanitarian access by humanitarian organizations to all areas affected by the fighting. The Government and all parties must enable the evacuation of the wounded, and all civilians who wish to leave must be enabled to do so. All parties must fully adhere to their obligations under international law, including in relation to the protection of civilians.

Agreed principles and guidelines for a Syrian-led transition

6. The members of the Action Group agreed on the principles and guidelines for a Syrian-led transition set out below.

7. Any political settlement must deliver to the people of the Syrian Arab Republic a transition that:

(a) Offers a perspective for the future that can be shared by all in the Syrian Arab Republic;

(b) Establishes clear steps according to a firm timetable towards the realization of that perspective;

(c) Can be implemented in a climate of safety for all and of stability and calm;

(d) Is reached rapidly without further bloodshed and violence and is credible.

8. Perspective for the future. The aspirations of the people of the Syrian Arab Republic have been clearly expressed by the wide range of Syrians consulted. There is an overwhelming wish for a State that:

(a) Is genuinely democratic and pluralistic, giving space to established and newly emerging political actors to compete fairly and equally in elections. This also means that the commitment to multiparty democracy must be a lasting one, going beyond an initial round of elections;

(b) Complies with international standards on human rights, the independence of the judiciary, accountability of those in Government and the rule of law. It is not enough just to enunciate such a commitment. There must be mechanisms available to the people to ensure that these commitments are kept by those in authority;

(c) Offers equal opportunities and chances for all. There is no room for sectarianism or discrimination on ethnic, religious, linguistic or any other grounds. Numerically smaller communities must be assured that their rights will be respected.

9. Clear steps in the transition. The conflict in the Syrian Arab Republic will end only when all sides are assured that there is a peaceful way towards a common future for all in the country. It is therefore essential that any settlement provide for clear and irreversible steps in the transition according to a fixed time frame. The key steps in any transition include:

(a) The establishment of a transitional governing body that can establish a neutral environment in which the transition can take place, with the transitional governing body exercising full executive powers. It could include members of the present Government and the opposition and other groups and shall be formed on the basis of mutual consent;

(b) It is for the Syrian people to determine the future of the country. All groups and segments of society in the Syrian Arab Republic must be enabled to participate in a national dialogue process. That process must be not only inclusive but also meaningful. In other words, its key outcomes must be implemented;

(c) On that basis, there can be a review of the constitutional order and the legal system. The result of constitutional drafting would be subject to popular approval;

(d) Upon establishment of the new constitutional order, it will be necessary to prepare for and conduct free and fair multiparty elections for the new institutions and offices that have been established;

(e) Women must be fully represented in all aspects of the transition.

10. Safety, stability and calm. Any transition involves change. However, it is essential to ensure that the transition can be implemented in a way that ensures the safety of all in an atmosphere of stability and calm. This requires:

(a) Consolidation of full calm and stability. All parties must cooperate with the transitional governing body to ensure the permanent cessation of violence. This includes completion of withdrawals and addressing the issue of the disarmament, demobilization and reintegration of armed groups;

(b) Effective steps to ensure that vulnerable groups are protected and that immediate action is taken to address humanitarian issues in areas of need. It is also necessary to ensure that the release of the detained is completed rapidly;

(c) Continuity of governmental institutions and qualified staff. Public services must be preserved or restored. This includes the military forces and security services. However, all governmental institutions, including the intelligence services, have to perform according to human rights and professional standards and operate under a leadership that inspires public confidence, under the control of the transitional governing body;

(d) Commitment to accountability and national reconciliation. Accountability for acts committed during the present conflict must be addressed. There also needs to be a comprehensive package for transitional justice, including compensation or rehabilitation for victims of the present conflict, steps towards national reconciliation and forgiveness.

11. Rapid steps to come to a credible political agreement. It is for the people of the Syrian Arab Republic to come to a political agreement, but time is running out. It is clear that:

(a) The sovereignty, independence, unity and territorial integrity of the Syrian Arab Republic must be respected;

(b) The conflict must be resolved through peaceful dialogue and negotiation alone. Conditions conducive to a political settlement must now be put in place;

(c) There must be an end to the bloodshed. All parties must recommit themselves credibly to the six-point plan. This must include a cessation of armed violence in all its forms and immediate, credible and visible actions to implement points 2 to 6 of the six-point plan;

(d) All parties must now engage genuinely with the Joint Special Envoy. The parties must be prepared to put forward effective interlocutors to work expeditiously towards a Syrian-led settlement that meets the legitimate aspirations of the people. The process must be fully inclusive in order to ensure that the views of all segments of Syrian society are heard in shaping the political settlement for the transition;

(e) The organized international community, including the members of the Action Group, stands ready to offer significant support for the implementation of an agreement reached by the parties. This may include an international assistance presence under a United Nations mandate if requested. Significant funds will be available to support reconstruction and rehabilitation.

Agreed actions

12. Agreed actions that the members of the Group will take to implement the above in support of the Joint Special Envoy's efforts to facilitate a Syrian-led political process are as follows:

(a) Action Group members will engage as appropriate, and apply joint and sustained pressure on, the parties in the Syrian Arab Republic to take the steps and measures outlined in paragraph 5 above;

(b) Action Group members are opposed to any further militarization of the conflict;

(c) Action Group members emphasize to the Government of the Syrian Arab Republic the importance of the appointment of an effective empowered interlocutor, when requested by the Joint Special Envoy to do so, to work on the basis of the six-point plan and the present communiqué;

(d) Action Group members urge the opposition to increase cohesion and to be in a position to ensure effective representative interlocutors to work on the basis of the six-point plan and the present communiqué;

(e) Action Group members will give full support to the Joint Special Envoy and his team as they immediately engage the Government and the opposition, and will consult widely with Syrian society, as well as other international actors, to further develop the way forward;

(f) Action Group members would welcome the further convening by the Joint Special Envoy of a meeting of the Action Group, should he deem it necessary to review the concrete progress taken on all points agreed in the present communiqué and to determine what further and additional steps and actions are needed from the Action Group to address the crisis. The Joint Special Envoy will also keep the United Nations and the League of Arab States informed.
